VERIFIED COMPLAINT

Plaintiff 1199SEIU United Healthcare Workers East, affiliated with the Service Employees International Union ("1199" or "Union"), by its undersigned attorneys, Levy Ratner, P.C. for its Complaint against Rite Aid Corporation and Eckerd/Brooks (collectively referred to as "Defendants") alleges:

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. This is an action to for a preliminary injunction in aid of arbitration under the collective bargaining agreement between 1199 and Defendant Rite Aid Corporation ("Rite Aid") of an arbitrable dispute. The dispute involves Rite Aid's threatened refusal to apply the terms of the parties' collective bargaining agreement to drug stores acquired by Rite Aid pursuant to an anticipated merger between Rite Aid and Defendant The Jean Coutu Group (PJC), Inc. ("Coutu Inc."), and Defendants' union avoidance campaign directed towards employees at those stores. 1199 asks the Court in this proceeding to enjoin Defendants from engaging in their union avoidance campaign until such time as the arbitration procedure is concluded and it is determined whether Defendant Rite Aid's threatened refusal apply the collective bargaining agreement to newly acquired stores, and Defendants' union avoidance campaign, violates the parties' collective bargaining agreement. Injunctive relief to preserve the status quo is necessary to preserve the integrity of the arbitration process and prevent that process from becoming a futile and hollow formality.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

2. This Court has federal question jurisdiction based upon Section 301 of the Labor Management Relations Act ("LMRA"), 29 U.S.C. §185. This action is properly before this Court pursuant to LMRA §301(c), which permits lawsuits by a labor organization in the district of its principal place of business.

PARTIES

3. Plaintiff 1199 is a labor organization within the meaning of Section 2(5) of the National Labor Relations Act ("NLRA"), 29 U.S.C. §152(5), with its principal place of business at 310 West 43rd Street, New York, New York 10036. It is the collective bargaining representative for approximately 250,000 employees in New York and throughout the east coast of the United States, including approximately 6,500 pharmacists, pharmacy technicians, pharmacy interns, clerks, stock persons, shift supervisors, assistant managers and other employees employed by Defendant Rite Aid.

4. Defendant Rite Aid is an employer within the meaning of NLRA §2(2), 29 U.S.C. §152(2), in an industry affecting commerce within the meaning of NLRA §2(7), 29 U.S.C. §152(7), with a principal place of business at 30 Hunter Lane, Camp Hill, Pennsylvania.

5. Defendant Rite Aid operates retail drug stores and pharmacies.

7. Defendant Coutu Inc. is an employer within the meaning of NLRA §2(2), 29 U.S.C. §152(2), in an industry affecting commerce within the meaning of NLRA §2(7), 29 U.S.C. §152(7), with a principal place of business in Longueuil, Quebec, Canada.

8. Defendant The Jean Coutu Group USA, Inc. d/b/a Brooks and Eckerd Drug Stores ("Coutu USA") is a subsidiary of Defendant Coutu Inc. and is an employer within the meaning of NLRA §2(2), 29 U.S.C. §152(2), in an industry affecting commerce within the meaning of NLRA §2(7), 29 U.S.C. §152(7), with a principal place of business at 50 Service Avenue, Warwick RI 02886-1021.

9. Defendant Coutu USA owns and operates approximately 1,850 Brooks Eckerd retail pharmacy stores ("Eckerd stores") in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic regions of the United States.

THE COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT

7. Plaintiff and Defendant Rite Aid have been parties to a series of collective bargaining agreements, the most recent of which was effective for the period October 11, 1998 through October 10, 2002 ("CBA").

8. The CBA has been extended, with certain modifications, by two (2) subsequent Memoranda of Agreement, the first effective for the period October 13, 2002 through October 14, 2006 ("2002 MOA") and the second effective for the period October 14, 2006 through October 14, 2010 ("2006 MOA").

9. The CBA, as modified by the 2002 MOA and 2006 MOA sets forth the terms and conditions of employment for covered employees.

10. Article 2 of the CBA provides that 1199 is the sole and exclusive representative of all professional and nonprofessional employees in the drug stores in the geographical area set forth in Article 1 ("Bargaining Unit").

11. The CBA sets forth the negotiated terms and conditions of employment in the Bargaining unit, including, inter alia, wages (Article 5), negotiated hours of work (Article 7), vacations and holidays (Articles 8 and 9, respectively), seniority protection (Article 12), and health insurance and pension benefits (Articles 26 and 27, respectively). These terms and conditions have been extended, with certain modifications, by the 2002 MOA and 2006 MOA.

12. CBA Article 1, Coverage, provides that

This Agreement shall be binding upon the Union, the Employer and its successors and assigns, but shall apply only to those drug stores operated by said Employer, and to drug stores hereafter opened by Rite Aid Corporation (including, but not limited to those in which the Employer directly or indirectly acquires an interest of 50% or more in existing stores), in the City of New York, and the New York Counties of Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Orange, Putnam, Ulster, Dutchess, Sullivan, and Rockland, and the City of Albany, and the New Jersey Counties of Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Hudson, and Union and the Cities of Edison, Perth Amboy, Carteret and Woodbridge in Middlesex County, New Jersey, regardless of the name or whether the drug store is operated individually or as a partnership or corporation.

The words "Employer" or Employers," as whenever used in this Agreement, and the pronouns, "he" and "his," used in connection therewith, are intended to apply to the Employer, Rite Aid Corporation, and to each drug store covered hereunder, whether operated by an individual, copartnership or corporation.

13. CBA Article 1 was not modified by the 2002 MOA or the 2006 MOA.

14. Article 31 of the CBA contains a broad grievance and arbitration procedure for the resolution of all disputes between 1199 and Defendant Rite Aid. It provides:

All complaints or disputes arising between the Union and the Employer under or out of this Agreement, or any breach or threatened breach of this Agreement (herein referred to as a "grievance" shall be adjusted pursuant to the terms and conditions of this grievance and arbitration procedure.

15. Article 31's definition of "grievance" was not modified by the 2002 MOA or the 2006 MOA.

16. The arbitration provision of Article 31, as modified by the 2006 MOA, permits the Union to refer unsettled grievances to arbitration before an Arbitrator designated by the American Arbitration Association.

THE UNDERLYING ARBITRABLE DISPUTE

17. Upon information and belief, Rite Aid and Coutu Inc. entered into a merger agreement pursuant to which Rite Aid will acquire, in full, all Eckerd stores, including those stores within the geographical area set forth in Article 1 of the CBA ("Merger Agreement").

18. Upon information and belief, the Federal Trade Commission's approval of the Merger Agreement is currently pending.

19. In or around April 2007, Rite Aid, in conjunction with the management of the to-be-acquired Eckerd and Brooks stores, launched a union avoidance campaign through which Defendants are evidencing open hostility towards the Union and are discouraging employees at the those stores from speaking with Union representatives, signing union authorization cards, communicating with their co-workers about the Union or otherwise demonstrating support for the Union ("Union Avoidance Campaign"). Defendants have also threatened reprisals against employees who support the Union. Defendants' Union Avoidance Campaign is currently ongoing.

20. On or about May 24, 2007, Defendant Rite Aid informed the Union that it intends to apply a "union-free business model" to the Brooks stores it acquires pursuant to the Merger Agreement.

21. On or about May 31, 2007 the Union filed a demand for arbitration seeking, inter alia, a declaratory ruling from an arbitrator that Defendant Rite Aid's stated intention to keep the acquired Eckerd stores "union free" is a violation of Article 1 of the CBA and a ruling that Defendants' concerted Union Avoidance Campaign violates the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing in the CBA because it frustrates the Union's ability to enforce Article 1 as to those newly acquired stores.

22. On or about May 31, 2007, the Union sent a letter to Defendant Rite Aid enclosing a copy of its demand for arbitration and requesting that Rite Aid consent to expedited arbitration of this dispute.

23. To date, Rite Aid has not agreed to expedited arbitration.

24. 1199 has filed this action for relief in aid of the duly demanded arbitration to preserve the status quo and the arbitrator's power to remedy the claimed breach by directing that Defendants cease engaging in the Union Avoidance Campaign.

25. If Defendants' Union Avoidance Campaign continues pending an arbitrator's award, 1199 will be irreparably harmed by its inability to enforce Article 1 of the CBA ("Coverage") with respect to the to-be-acquired Eckerd stores and the employees at those stores will be irreparably harmed by being denied Union representation and contractual benefits to which they are entitled.

AS AND FOR A FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

26. 1199 repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained in paragraphs numbered 1 through 25 hereof with the same force and effect as if again set forth herein at length.

27. The dispute between 1199 and Rite Aid is arbitrable under their Agreement.

AS AND FOR A SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION

28. 1199 repeats and realleges each and every allegation contained in paragraphs numbered 1 through 27 hereof with the same force and effect as if again set forth herein at length.

29. The arbitration remedy which 1199 seeks would include an Award requiring Defendants to cease and desist from its Union Avoidance Campaign and other conduct which serves to frustrate 1199's ability to enforce Article 1 of the CBA as it applies to newly acquired stores

30. As the continuation of Defendants' Union Avoidance Campaign pending the conclusion of the arbitration process will irreparably harm the Union, its Bargaining Unit, and the employees at the Eckerd stores, such that an arbitrator will not be able to issue an adequate remedy, the Court should enjoin Defendants' Union Avoidance Campaign pending the completion of the underlying arbitration to preserve the integrity of Article 31, Grievance and Arbitration, and protect against an unremediable breach of Article 1, Coverage.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff requests that this Court (1) enter an order prohibiting Defendants from continuing their Union Avoidance Campaign and further prohibiting Defendants from engaging in other conduct which would frustrate the Union's ability to enforce the CBA, including the After-Acquired Clause of Article 1, as applied to the to-be-acquired Eckerd stores within the geographical area set forth in Article 1 pending an arbitrator's decision that doing so is permissible under the CBA and (2) granting such other and further relief as this Court deems necessary and proper.

SEIU1199, United Healthcare Workers East

Charge Allegations

- I. Since on or about a date six (6) months prior to the filing of this charge, and continuously thereafter, SEIU1199, a labor organization, by its officers, agents and representatives (collectively "SEIU1199"), has restrained and coerced, and is restraining and coercing Rite Aid employees who were formerly employees of Brooks and Eckerd pharmacies (collectively "Brooks/Eckerd employees") in the exercise of their rights under Section 7 of the Act by engaging in a campaign and taking other unlawful action to gain status as the exclusive bargaining representative of said employees without permitting them to choose for themselves whether they wish to have SEIU1199 as their exclusive representative for purposes of collective bargaining. SEIU1199 has not claimed that Brooks/Eckerd employees have lawfully designated SEIU1199 as their representative. Examples of coercive conduct engaged in by SEIU1199 in furtherance of its efforts to achieve such unlawful ends include, but are not limited to, the following:
 - a. Maintaining a web site on which SEIU1199 states that upon the merger of Brooks/Eckerd and Rite Aid Corporation, Brooks/Eckerd employees will automatically become members of SEIU1199 irrespective of whether a majority of employees in an appropriate unit designate SEIU1199 as their exclusive bargaining representative.
 - b. Conducting a two-day campaign on April 30 and May 1, 2007 during which it stated to several hundred Brooks/Eckerd employees in 14 NJ and NY counties, throughout New York City, Long Island, and north through the Hudson Valley and Albany area, that it would gain exclusive representative status over them because the current collective bargaining agreement between SEIU1199 and Rite Aid would apply to such employees automatically upon approval of the merger of the Brooks and Eckerd pharmacies into the Rite Aid Corporation by the US Federal Trade Commission.
 - c. Soliciting and obtaining signed authorization cards from Brooks/Eckerd employees under the pretense that the collective bargaining agreement between Rite Aid and SEIU1199 requires them to become members in SEIU1199 as a condition of continued employment, and that such employees have no choice but to sign the cards or they will lose their jobs.
 - d. Engaging in a communications campaign to Brooks/Eckerd employees, which, among other things, informed and continues to inform such employees that they are automatically going to become members of SEIU1199 through an after acquired stores clause in a collective bargaining agreement between Rite Aid and SEIU1199. Such clause, and SEIU1199's attempts to enforce it are unlawful, the clause does not require any proof that a majority of Rite Aid employees who are formerly Brooks/Eckerd employees in one or more appropriate units wish to have the SEIU1199 be their exclusive bargaining representative.

- e. Demanding application of the terms of a collective bargaining agreement to the Brooks/Eckerd employees through an after acquired stores clause and without any proof that a majority of Brooks/Eckerd employees in one or more appropriate units wish to have the SEIU1199 be their exclusive bargaining representative. One of the terms of said collective bargaining agreement, if applicable, would require Rite Aid to terminate the employment of any former Brooks/Eckerd employee who after the merger, ceases to be or does not become a member in good standing of SEIU1199 by reason of his failure to pay the initiation fee and periodic dues uniformly required as a condition of acquiring or retaining membership.
 - f. Initiating an arbitration proceeding against Rite Aid on or about May 31, 2007 in which SEIU1199 demanded that Rite Aid apply the terms of its current contract to the Brooks/Eckerd employees without proving that it represents a majority of them in an appropriate unit.
 - g. Other like and related conduct designed to restrain and coerce Brooks/Eckerd employees and Rite Aid employees in the exercise of their rights under Section 7 of the Act.
- II. Since on or about a date six (6) months prior to the filing of this charge, and continuously thereafter SEIU 1199 has attempted to cause Rite Aid to terminate the employment of and/or discriminate against Brooks/Eckerd employees by seeking to apply the terms of the collective bargaining agreement between Rite Aid and SEIU1199, containing union security provisions that require all employees to maintain their membership in good standing in SEIU1199 and pay periodic dues and initiation fees as a condition of continued employment, to all Brooks/Eckerd employees, notwithstanding the fact that SEIU1199 does not have majority support in any appropriate unit of Brooks/Eckerd employees.
- III. Since on or about a date six (6) months prior to the filing of this charge, and continuously thereafter, SEIU1199 has failed and refused to bargain in good faith with the Rite Aid Corporation, in respect to rates of pay, wages, and hours of employment and other terms and conditions of employment of the employees of said Employer, by engaging in the following conduct:
- a. Seeking to apply an after acquired stores clause to Brooks/Eckerd employees notwithstanding the fact that SEIU1199 does not have majority support in any appropriate unit of Brooks/Eckerd employees.

08/05/07 TUE 10:31 FAX 4103853700

MILESSTOCKHOUSE

- b. Initiation of arbitration proceedings against Rite Aid on or about May 31, 2007 to secure a remedy that violates the Section 7 rights of Brooks/Eckerd employees to choose for them whether they wish to have SEIU1199 as their exclusive representative for purposes of collective bargaining.

Rite Aid respectfully requests that the Board exercise its authority under Section 10(j) of the Act to initiate injunction proceedings to prevent the unfair labor practices being committed by SEIU1199.

PLAINTIFF 1199'S MEMORANDUM OF LAW
IN SUPPORT OF ITS MOTION FOR A PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION IN AID OF ARBITRATION

INTRODUCTION

1199SEIU, United Healthcare Workers East ("1199" or "Union") submits this Memorandum of Law in support of its application pursuant to Section 301 of the Labor Management Relations Act ("LRMA"), 29 U.S.C. §185, for a preliminary injunction, pendente lite, enjoining Defendants Rite Aid Corporation ("Rite Aid"), The Jean Coutu Group (PJC), Inc. ("Coutu Inc.") and The Jean Coutu Group USA, Inc. ("Coutu USA"), d/b/a Brooks Eckerd Drug Stores from engaging in a union avoidance campaign directed towards the employees at Brooks Eckerd stores that will be acquired by Rite Aid pursuant to a merger agreement between Rite Aid and Coutu Inc. ("Merger Agreement").

Plaintiff 1199 and Defendant Rite Aid are parties to a collective bargaining agreement which provides that the terms of the agreement shall apply to newly acquired Rite Aid stores, including existing stores in which Rite Aid acquires an interest of 50% or more. Despite the clear language of the agreement, Rite Aid has informed the Union that it will apply a “union free business model” to the Brooks Eckerd drug stores it acquires pursuant to the Merger Agreement (“Eckerd stores”). Further, Rite Aid has, in conjunction with management at the Eckerd stores, launched a campaign designed to discourage and undermine the employees’ support for the Union (“Union Avoidance Campaign”).

As demonstrated below, a preliminary injunction in aid of arbitration to preserve the status quo is appropriate where, as here, the contractual arbitration procedure will otherwise be rendered futile. In this case, Defendants’ continued Union Avoidance Campaign will make it impossible for the Union to secure the support of the Eckerd employees necessary for it to enforce the agreement and for those employees to obtain Union representation and contractual benefits. Accordingly, an injunction pending arbitration should be issued.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The Affidavit of 1199 Vice President Laurianne Vallone in Support of Plaintiff’s Motion for a Preliminary Injunction (“Vallone Affidavit”) sets forth the material facts in this matter and we respectfully refer the Court to that Affidavit. However, for the Court’s convenience, a brief summary of the facts follows.

1199 represents approximately 6,500 pharmacists, pharmacy technicians, pharmacy interns, clerks, stock persons, shift supervisors, assistant managers and other employees employed by Rite Aid in various counties and cities in New York and New Jersey (“Bargaining Unit”). Vallone Affidavit ¶7. 1199 and Rite Aid have been parties to several successive collective bargaining agreements, the most recent of which was effective for the period October 11, 1998 through October 10, 2002 ("CBA"). Exhibit 1.¹ The CBA was extended, with certain modifications, by two (2) subsequent Memoranda of Agreement, the first effective for the period October 13, 2002 through October 14, 2006 ("2002 MOA") and the second effective for the period October 14, 2006 through October 13, 2010 ("2006 MOA"). Exhibits 2 and 3.

Article 1 of the CBA, entitled Coverage, provides that the CBA shall apply any existing stores that Rite Aid acquires within the geographical area covered by the agreement ("After-Acquired Clause").² Specifically, the After-Acquired Clause of Article 1 states that the CBA "shall apply only to those drug stores operated by said Employer, and to drug stores hereafter opened by Rite Aid Corporation (including but not limited to those stores in which the Employer directly or indirectly acquires an interest of 50% or more in existing stores) . . ." Exhibit 1, p. 2.

In or around August 2006, Rite Aid advised the Union that it had entered into the Merger Agreement with Coutu Inc., pursuant to which Rite Aid will acquire, in full, all Eckerd stores, including those stores within the geographical area covered by the CBA. See Vallone Affidavit ¶17. The Federal Trade Commission's approval of the Merger Agreement is currently pending. Vallone Affidavit ¶18. In direct contravention of the language of CBA Article 1 (Exhibit 1, p. 2), Rite Aid informed the Union that it intended to operate the to-be-acquired Eckerd stores pursuant to a "union free business model." Vallone Affidavit ¶¶ 21, 44.

² The geographical area set forth in Article 1 is "the City of New York, and the New York Counties of Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Orange, Putnam, Ulster, Dutchess, Sullivan, and Rockland, and the City of Albany, and the New Jersey Counties of Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Hudson, and Union and the Cities of Edison, Perth Amboy, Carteret and Woodbridge in Middlesex County, New Jersey." Exhibit 1, p. 2.

In the early Spring of 2007, Rite Aid confirmed to the Union that it had, in conjunction with management at the to-be-acquired Eckerd stores, launched a campaign directed at the Eckerd employees within the geographical area covered by the CBA designed to discourage and undermine the employees' support for the Union ("Union Avoidance Campaign"). Vallone Affidavit ¶21. As part of the Union Avoidance Campaign, Defendants have

- conducted a "10 Minute Huddle" with store employees at which they told the employees that they can vote against union representation, stressed that management "prefer[s] to work directly with [employees] to address questions and concerns versus dealing with a third party," stated that under a union contract everyone normally receives the same pay regardless of performance, and warned that the Union would undermine the success of the stores. See Exhibits 5 and 6.
- held mandatory in-store meetings at which they advised employees that the Union will take away their money and other benefits, that employees should not speak with Union representatives who enter the stores, that employees should not sign any document given to them by the Union. See Vallone Affidavit ¶¶ 27, 30, 33.
- required employees to attend off-site meetings at which managers told them not to support 1199. See Vallone Affidavit ¶¶ 28, 34.
- forced employees to read and sign literature disavowing support for the Union. See Vallone Affidavit ¶¶ 37, 38.

Employees who have demonstrated any support for the Union have been subject to management threats, both express and implied. An employee who distributed Union literature to a co-worker was told to "keep his opinions to himself," to "be careful what he says," and that he might "get into trouble." See Vallone Affidavit ¶35. Another employee was threatened with discharge if she discussed the Union at work. See Vallone Affidavit ¶31.³

On or about May 10, 2007, 1199 President Dennis Rivera initiated a telephone conversation with Rite Aid Chief Executive Officer Mary Sammon. See Vallone Affidavit ¶41. Rivera protested Rite Aid's stated refusal to apply the CBA to the Eckerd stores it acquires pursuant to the Merger Agreement, and stated that the Union Avoidance Campaign Rite Aid was conducting along with Eckerd management violates Article 1 of the CBA. See Vallone Affidavit ¶¶ 41, 42. Subsequently, on or about May 24, 2007, 1199 Executive Vice President Michael Rifkin met with Rite Aid Senior Vice President of Human Resources Todd McCarty. See Vallone Affidavit ¶44, Exhibit 11. At that meeting, McCarty reiterated Rite Aid's intention to operate the to-be-acquired Eckerd stores pursuant to a "union free business model" and confirmed that Rite Aid and Eckerd management had jointly undertaken and would continue a Union Avoidance Campaign targeting the workers in those stores. See Vallone Affidavit ¶¶ 44, 45, Exhibit 11.

On May 31, 2007, 1199 filed a demand for arbitration seeking a declaratory ruling from an arbitrator that Rite Aid's intention to keep the acquired Eckerd stores "union-free" is a violation of the CBA's After-Acquired Clause and further seeking a ruling that the Union Avoidance Campaign violates the CBA because it frustrates the Union's ability to enforce the After-Acquired Clause. Exhibit 2. On May 31, 2007, 1199 wrote to Rite Aid, enclosing a copy of its demand for arbitration and requesting that Rite Aid consent to expedited arbitration of this matter. Exhibit 13. To date, Rite Aid has not agreed to expedited arbitration. Vallone Affidavit ¶ 49.

ARGUMENT

THE COURT SHOULD RESTRAIN AND ENJOIN DEFENDANTS' UNION AVOIDANCE CAMPAIGN TO PRESERVE THE INTEGRITY OF THE ARBITRAL PROCESS AND TO AVOID IRREPARABLE HARM TO 1199 AND ITS MEMBERS

Few principles of federal labor law are so well-settled as the requirement that parties to a collective bargaining agreement providing for compulsory arbitration submit all disputes arguably arising from the agreement to arbitration. This principle was set forth by the Supreme Court in three decisions known as the Steelworkers Trilogy: Steelworkers v. American Manufacturing Co., 363 U.S. 564 (1960), Steelworkers v. Warrior and Gulf Navigation Co., 363 U.S. 574 (1960), and Steelworkers v. Enterprise Wheel Car Corp., 363 U.S. 593 (1960). These decisions reflect a national labor policy favoring resolution of labor disputes through arbitration rather than through strikes and litigation.

An equally well-settled corollary of that policy is the court's power to exercise its injunctive powers in aid of arbitration. In Boys Market Inc. v. Retail Clerks Local 770, 398 U.S. 235 (1970), the Supreme Court reinforced that policy and explained that the purpose of the court's power is to ensure meaningful compliance with the arbitral process which the parties have negotiated as the method for resolving disputes arising under the collective bargaining agreement. Thus, when a union eschews the arbitration process in favor of a strike to pressure an employer to resolve a dispute, the courts will enjoin that strike activity to preserve the arbitration process if the dispute is one covered by the arbitration clause. Those injunctions have been referred to as "Boys Market" injunctions, following the name of the lead case.

Similarly, if an employer takes or threatens to take unilateral action which will preclude a meaningful remedy in arbitration, the courts will intervene. Those so-called "Reverse Boys Market" injunctions have been issued to preserve the status quo by enjoining employer conduct pending resolution of the Union's challenge in arbitration. See, e.g., Niagara Hooker Employees Union v. Accidental Chemical Corp., 935 F.2d 1370 (2nd Cir. 1991); Postal Workers Union v. United States Postal Service, 766 F.2d 715 (2nd Cir. 1985), cert. denied, 475 U.S. 1046 (1986); Independent Oil & Chemical Workers v. Proctor & Gamble Mfg. Co., 864 F.2d 927 (1st Cir. 1988); Nursing Home and Hospital Union v. Sky Vue Terrace, 759 F.2d 1094 (3rd Cir. 1985); Lever Bros. Co. v. Chemical Workers Local 217, 554 F.2d 115 (4th Cir. 1976); Panoramic Corp., 668 F.2d 276 (7th Cir. 1981).

Accordingly, a "Reverse Boys Market" injunction is warranted here to ensure that the arbitration process is not transformed into a "meaningless ritual." Panoramic Corp., 668 F.2d at 283.

A. The Standard For Issuing A Status Quo Injunction

In Niagara Hooker, the Second Circuit articulated the requirements for a "Reverse Boys Market" injunction to preserve the status quo pending arbitration. A Union may obtain a status quo injunction against an employer if (a) the grievance is arbitrable and (b) the injunction is necessary to "prevent arbitration from being rendered a meaningless ritual." Niagara Hooker, 935 F.2d at 1377 (quoting Panoramic Corp., 668 F.2d at 283). In addition, a union must also satisfy the traditional requirements for equitable relief by showing that there is "some likelihood" of success on the merits of the arbitration. See Niagara Hooker, 935 F.2d at 1377-78; Hoh v. Pepsico, 481 F.2d 556, 561 (2d Cir. 1974).

B. 1199's Grievance is Arbitrable

That the underlying dispute is arbitrable cannot be reasonably contested. The arbitration provision of the CBA, Article 31, provides that either party may demand arbitration of any grievance and broadly defines "grievance" as "[a]ll complaints or disputes arising between the Union and the Employer under or out of this Agreement, or any breach or threatened breach of this Agreement.” Exhibit 1, p. 54. 1199’s dispute with Rite Aid falls well within the scope of the arbitration clause in Article 31. By conducting the Union Avoidance Campaign in conjunction with Eckerd management, Rite Aid is frustrating the Union’s ability to enforce the After-Acquired Clause of Article 1 in breach of the CBA’s implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing (See Section C.1 below). Therefore, 1199’s dispute with Rite Aid is clearly appropriate for and amenable to arbitral determination.

C. Unless Enjoined, 1199’s Attempt to Vindicate Its Rights and the Rights of Its Members Through Arbitration Will Be Rendered A Meaningless Ritual.

As the Second Circuit explained in Niagara Hooker, a union may obtain a status quo injunction against an employer when the employer’s action has the effect of frustrating the arbitral process, or rendering it a “hollow formality.” 935 F.2d at 1378 (quoting Lever Bros., 554 F.2d at 123). The integrity of the arbitral process is irreparably compromised if, as a result of the employer’s actions, the arbitrator’s award cannot “undo the harm.” Id. at 1378. The question is whether the arbitrator can, without an injunction, fashion an adequate remedy to return the parties to the status quo ante. In the instant matter, that question must be answered in the negative.

The After-Acquired Clause of Article 1 in the CBA provides that the contract’s terms shall apply to new drug stores opened by Rite Aid, including existing stores in which Rite Aid acquires an interest of 50% or more, within the geographical area described in that article. Exhibit 1, p. 2. In addition to its plain language, the CBA, like all collective bargaining agreements, includes an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing which requires the parties to act with “faithfulness to an agreed common purpose,” consistent with the “justified expectations of the other party” and the “spirit of the bargain.” Aeronautical Indus. Dist. Lodge 91 of the Int’l Ass’n of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, AFL-CIO v. United Technologies Corp., 87 F.Supp.2d 116, 127 (D.Conn. 2000); aff’d 230 F.3d 569 (2d Cir. 2000). See also, Allis-Chalmers Corp. v. Lueck, 471 U.S. 202, 220 (1985) (recognizing claim for breach of covenant of good faith under §301 of the LMRDA).⁴ The Defendants’ Union Avoidance Campaign breaches the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing in the CBA as it is inconsistent with both the spirit of the After-Acquired Clause and the Union’s justified expectations with respect to that provision.

Under federal labor law, in order for the After-Acquired clause have effect, the employees in the newly acquired Eckerd stores must either be deemed an accretion to the Union’s existing bargaining unit,⁵ or must demonstrate majority support for the Union. See Kroger Co., 219 NLRB 388, 389 (1975). While the Union is confident that employees in some of the stores will be accreted to the bargaining unit, in most cases it is likely that the former Eckerd employees will have to demonstrate majority support for the Union in order to obtain coverage under the CBA.

⁴ The implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing in collective bargaining agreements has also been recognized by arbitrators. See e.g., Chevron Oronite Chemical Co. and PACE, Local 4-447, 04-1 Lab. Arb. Awards (CCH) P 3748 (January 6, 2004, Nicholas); Int’l Assoc. of Machinists, Local 2061 and United Space Alliance, 04-1 Lab. Arb. Awards (CCH) P 3754 (November 17, 2003, Yancy) (neither party may do anything which will have the effect of destroying or injuring the other party’s right to receive the fruits of the contract). A copy of these arbitration decisions are attached hereto as Exhibit A.

⁵ Employees in any newly acquired Eckerd stores will accrete to the bargaining unit, and the Union will represent them as a matter of law, if they share with the employees in the existing bargaining unit (a) geographic proximity; (b) similarity of skills and functions, (c) similarity of employment conditions, (d) centralization of administration, (e) managerial and supervisory control, (f) employee interchange, (g) functional integration of the employer and (h) bargaining history. See Staten Island Univ. Hosp. v. NLRB, 24 F.3d 450, 454-55 (2d Cir. 1994), citing NLRB v. Stevens Ford, Inc., 773 F.2d 468, 473 (2d Cir. 1985).

It is clear that without a preliminary injunction, Defendants will proceed with the Union Avoidance Campaign, making it virtually impossible for the Union to secure the necessary majority support among the former Eckerd employees, thereby depriving those employees of their right to Union representation and contractual benefits, and depriving the Union of the benefit of its bargain. This is particularly true given that the Union has been denied access to Eckerd stores and, therefore, cannot communicate with the workers about the Union itself. See Vallone Affidavit ¶22. That Defendants' purpose in launching the Union Avoidance Campaign is to frustrate the Union's ability to enforce the After-Acquired Clause is clear and is consistent with its stated "new business model" which includes remaining "union free" at the those stores. The campaign is specifically designed to influence employees' ideas about the Union and thereby discourage their support for the Union. As the Union is unable to counter the messages sent through the Union Avoidance Campaign, only the Court, and ultimately the arbitrator, have the ability to stop the harm.

It is equally clear that if the Union Avoidance Campaign continues for the many months it will certainly take to conclude the normal arbitration process, the arbitrator will not be able to meaningfully remedy the changed opinions resulting from Defendants' communications, both oral and written, about the Union. If the Arbitrator finds that the Union Avoidance Campaign violates the CBA the only remedy s/he can order is that Defendants cease and desist from engaging in that campaign. However, the arbitrator will not be able to undo the effects of months and months of that campaign on the minds of the workers, and the Union's ability to enforce the After-Acquired Clause of Article 1 will be rendered meaningless and the employees' right to Union representation and contract coverage will be a nullity.

This case is analogous to Teachers Association of the Japanese Educational Institute of New York v. Japanese Educational Institute of New York, Inc., 724 F.Supp. 188 (S.D.N.Y. 1989). In that case, the Union sought to enjoin the Employer's proposed changes to the format and structure of certain monthly meetings held between the parties pending arbitration of its dispute as to whether those proposed changes violate the parties' collective bargaining agreement. In granting the injunction, the Court equated its analysis of whether the arbitrator could award an adequate remedy with the concept of irreparable harm. The Court stated, Irreparable harm must be viewed in the context of the nature of the dispute. The present underlying dispute centers around the format of a meeting designed to promote communication and the exchange of ideas between the [Employer] and the [Union]. The harm alleged from the change in format concerns the dynamics of the meeting, the range of the freedom of expression, and the channeling of that expression to the [Employer]. . . The traditional irreparable harm requirement for an injunction focuses on the nature of the harm, not the nature of the action. The test is whether an arbitrator can fashion an adequate remedy to return the parties to status quo ante and thus a minor or nondrastic change, as well as a reversible action, can both produce an irreparable harm.

Without a preliminary injunction, the [Employer] will proceed with the implementation of the format change . . . To the extent that the dynamics of these monthly discourses differ in the multiple for a from the discussions that would have been held in the traditional forum, the [Union] is irreparably harmed. . . A meeting already held, just like a plant already moved, presents an arbitrator with a deed already done. The inability to recreate the discussion that would or should have been constitutes irreparable harm.

724 F.Supp. at 192-94 (citations omitted)(emphasis added).

In the instant matter, the underlying dispute centers around the After-Acquired Clause of Article 1 which was designed to provide Union representation and contract coverage to employees in newly acquired stores. The harm alleged from Defendants' Union Avoidance Campaign is Union's inability to enforce that clause and secure the benefit of its bargain and the employees' loss of Union representation and contractual benefits. As the Court recognized in Japanese Educational Institute, it is not the nature of the Defendants' actions, but the nature of the harm caused by those actions that is relevant. Therefore, the Defendants cannot escape a finding of irreparable harm here, any more than they could in Japanese Educational Institute, by arguing they are simply exercising their right under federal labor law to inform employees about the Union. Even if the Defendants' communications about the Union were otherwise lawful, those communications arguably breach the CBA and the harm they cause cannot be undone by the arbitration process. That is, by the time the dispute reached an arbitrator, the Union Avoidance Campaign would be "a deed already done" as an arbitrator would be unable to restore the atmosphere, free of anti-union rhetoric, that would or should have existed. As such, the Union Avoidance Campaign constitutes irreparable harm which would render an arbitrator's decision hollow and the arbitral process a meaningless ritual.

D. 1199 Is Likely To Prevail On The Merits.

Because the merits of the underlying grievance are to be determined in the contract arbitration, a union seeking a "Reverse Boys Market injunction must demonstrate only "some likelihood" that it will prevail on the merits at arbitration. See Hoh, 491 F.2d at 561. Plaintiff has more than met that threshold. As discussed above, both the Courts and arbitrators recognize the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing in collective bargaining agreements pursuant to which parties are required to refrain from engaging in conduct which undermines the spirit of the bargain. See United Technologies, 87 F.Supp.2d at 127. Rather, parties are required to act in a manner that is consistent with the "justified expectations of the other party." Certainly, with the existence of the After-Acquired Clause in Article 1 of the CBA, the Union is justified in expecting that when Rite Aid acquires a new store, it will not interfere with the Union's opportunity to secure the support of employees in that store necessary to give effect to that contractual provision. Any such interference violates the spirit of the bargain and it is, accordingly, more than likely that the Union will ultimately succeed on the merits and obtain the relief it seeks at arbitration. See Id.

CONCLUSION

Having met all the requirements for a status quo injunction in aid of arbitration, 1199 respectfully requests that the Court grant a preliminary injunction, pendente lite, enjoining Defendants from engaging in the Union Avoidance Campaign directed at the employees at Eckerd stores which will be acquired by Rite Aid pursuant to the Merger Agreement until the arbitration of 1199's grievance is concluded.
